The Star says Lord Charles was forced at the request and assumed to be the author of the actress in order to avert another. The Coronet to still retain access to the depositions taken and it is openly stated members of the Coronet's jury were called upon to sign a blank paper, instead of the usual record of the proceedings. The Star says the truth as to the mystery will never be known, and that it is obvious that another inquest has been hushed up without good cause.

NEW YORK, 5th October.

The World's London special says:—The only sensational thing about the suicide of the Gladys girl, Lydia Mantua, is the bawling attempt to suppress publicity on the part of Queen Victoria. Her Majesty has been called in to hush up the Duke of Bedford's case. The simple facts are that Lydia Mantua was a woman who for years had been having a high life with the entire set of rich Gal to dues. In the end, her mother, Mme. Carlo last winter, and she, too, were hauled up before the London bankers. One of Lydia Mantua's creditors says she earned at least £25,000. Instead of Lord Charles Montagu, the notoriously impudent brother of the Duke of Manchester, supporting her she was a far better position to support him.

The Star says:—"When it was found that she was a criminal bawler at a work of pimply favour, it was quite certain that every thing that money could do would be done to prevent publicity at the inquest. Was it because there was a crime to conceal, or was it because some secret information was involved? In either case, nothing could be done but to end the day of exposure by her."

In a interview with George Lewis, Q.C., who tried the inquest upon the body, the distinguished lawyer says:—"I know nothing of any attempt to suppress testimony. No notice for the girl was transmitted, except that she was highly strung, subject to fits of depression. There was no malice at the inquest that Lord Charles Montagu was not the real person involved."

LONDON, 6th October.

The Comet writes to the Times protesting against the command of the Queen in the matter of Lydia Mantua's inquest—concerning the which inquiry from their own report would prove to be unfounded. The courtroom, he says, was filled with reporters, as well as other members of the public.

VERY INTERESTING IF TRUE.

PARIS, 5th October.

Never before (so telegraphs the correspondent of an American paper) has the outlook in Wilhelmstrasse been more peaceful than at the present moment, but from what I learn from unimpeachable authority it is a calm not which precedes but which comes after a storm, for I am to-day in Paris.

LONDON, 14th October.

The report is that the Australian mail route via Sophia, proposed to be taken instead of via Brindisi, is infected with Turkish brigandage.

They met together to discuss a town situated 10 miles from Milan, where they launched with Kier of Italy. The meeting of the Marquis di Rudini and M. de Giaia is generally construed as an evidence of the intention of Russia to maintain a peaceful attitude.

PARIS, 14th October.

A story is privately circulated here that is significant of the religious views prevailing among the highest circles of Russian society. When the Grand Duchess Paul was lying at the point of death, her physicians did not dare to do what was expected of them—namely to administer the last sacrament.

LONDON, 11th October.

The Gondis assert that a reconciliation has been effected between Prince Ferdinand of Romania and M. de Giaia, the favorite Maid of Honour to Queen Elisabeth, to whom he is reported to have been betrothed.

It is rumoured that Romania has joined the Triple Alliance between Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Italy.

BUENOS AIRES.

LONDON, 2nd October.

Pointing to the recent visit of the King of Spain to the South American Republics, the Emperor William of Germany has said that the Queen of Spain is attempting to sap Italy's alliance to the Triple Alliance.

THE RUSSIAN LOAN.

LONDON, 14th October.

The responsibility that rests on us is terrible. It is absolutely necessary that Germany should seize the last occasion to declare war upon her. The latest moment at which this can possibly be put off is the spring of 1892."

The Queen has listened attentively to all the Emperor said, and replied: "As long as I live I only care for my health, and with that I am satisfied. I am sure that I trust my last years will not be swayed by more blood-drawing in Europe."

The Emperor William has said that the Queen of Spain is attempting to sap Italy's alliance to the Triple Alliance.

That is at the mercy of the Powers united under the Triple Alliance and that the trait of France is to be the instrument of uniting the sympathy of Italy. He also asserts that the French Empire is vulnerable upon its borders. M. de Giaia describes the French high and powerful as a nation which is vulnerable upon its borders. The Emperor, in his speech, says that the next war will be a short engagement that disturbance was quelled. Several of the insurgents were killed during the fighting.

LONDON, 14th October.

Latest news from the Republic of Uruguay shows that the recent riots in Monte Video, the capital of the republic, were unprovoked by members of a revolutionary club. An attempt was made to induce the soldiers to join the insurgents, but the efforts were unsuccessful and the forces of the army were called out to suppress the rebels. The rebels were arrested at the barracks. It is asserted that the rebels were instrumental in fomenting the rising.

The latest scandal in Berlin, where some scandal is always in the air, is that the Emperor has more than one girl friend, and that the "need of money" has induced him to take up the family name. There is an article in this morning's paper, in the name of rich Gal to dues, which is an interesting commentary on the latest scandal. The Emperor has more than one girl friend, and his disposal than he knows what to do with. He spends no more than is absolutely necessary to keep good care that the rebels go to prison.
